

Sparkling and Champagne

Did Champagne producers invent sparkling wine? If not, who did?

No, the English invented it

What is the third grape allowed in Champagne production, but is often considered less noble than Chardonnay and Pinot Noir?

Pinot Meunier

What is dosage? How is it different from disgorgement?

Dosage is the addition of sugar/wine after disgorgement to adjust sweetness; disgorgement is the removal of dead yeast from the bottle

Which is drier - extra dry or brut?

Brut

What is the least expensive method - traditional or Charmat? Why?

Charmat, because the secondary fermentation happens in large tanks instead of individual bottles

What is the method required for Cava production? Where is it made?

Traditional method. In Spain

Which country produces and likes good Sekts?

Germany

Name the grape used in the production of spumante from Asti? Which country?

Moscato (Muscat Blanc). Italy

Why did the French start producing sparkling wine in California and other countries?

To expand production and take advantage of suitable climates while increases profits and market reach

What makes Champagne and sparkling wines excellent with a variety of food?

High acidity and carbonation