Our Farmers

- Nearly 100% of our barley comes from America's farmers.
- We're investing billions in cutting-edge innovations.
- We are working hand-in-hand with American farmers to raise the next generation of barley.

Our Legacy

- Our founder, Adolphus Busch, journeyed to America from Germany in 1857, determined to make his dreams come true.
- After fighting for the Union during the Civil War, Adolphus joined his father-in-law's business, bringing big, ambitious ideas with him.
- In 1879, the company's name was officially changed to Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association. After Eberhard's passing in 1880, Adolphus became president.

- Before Budweiser was introduced, many Americans were drinking heavy, dark ales. But St. Louis summers were hot – perfect for a palatable, crisp lager.
- Budweiser's smoothness and drinkability were a success. Budweiser quickly became wildly popular not just in St. Louis but in America. And we've stayed true to the recipe ever since.
