

Question - What are the four basic ingredients in beer according to the Reinheitsgebot?

Answer - Water, yeast, grains, and hops

Question - What is an adjunct in beer, and how does it differ under German purity laws?

Answer - An adjunct is any ingredient added to beer beyond the four basic ingredients and is not allowed under German purity laws

Question - On the standard beer color scale (0–8), what number corresponds to black beer?

Answer - 8

Question - What is the main purpose of hops in beer?

Answer - To add bitterness and aroma

Question - What is a key visual characteristic expected of lagers?

Answer - They should be crystal clear

Question - Which beer style is known for strong coffee, roasted, and dark chocolate flavors?

Answer - Stout

Question - What flavor/aroma characteristics are commonly associated with IPAs?

Answer - Citrus, grapefruit, pine, bitterness, and tropical fruit notes

Question - What is a Schwarzbier, and what are its typical characteristics?

Answer - A black lager with roasted, coffee-like, and chocolate flavors

Question - What type of beer is a Helles?

Answer - A pale German lager

Question - What are common flavor characteristics of Belgian strong ales?

Answer - Sweet, fruity, spicy, and alcoholic warmth

Question - What distinguishes a Saison from other beer styles?

Answer - Fruity, spicy, sometimes funky flavors with a dry finish

Question - What is a Radler, and what is its defining characteristic?

Answer - A beer mixed with fruit soda, usually citrus, and is low alcohol

Question - What mouthfeel is described as "thin" or "watery" on the tasting scale?

Answer - Low mouthfeel (around 0–1)

Question - What is a key difference between ales and lagers in fermentation?

Answer - Ales use top-fermenting yeast at warmer temperatures while lagers use bottom-fermenting yeast at cooler temperatures

Question - What sensory characteristics might indicate a lightstruck beer?

Answer - Skunky or chemical aroma or flavor